3 Cedillo Helps Save the Zanja Madre

PRESS RELEASE

Cedillo Helps Save the Zanja Madre

The original aqueduct that brought water to the Pueblo de Los Angeles from the Los Angeles River

Los Angeles – The Zanja Madre as a water system was a critical factor in the survival and growth of Los Angeles. Councilmember Cedillo has brought together numerous groups who will be able to properly conserve the Zanja Madre. In addition, the Councilmember successfully negotiated proper display of this piece of Los Angeles rich history for everyone to enjoy.

Metabolic Studios and Forest City have agreed to carefully excavate the Zanja Madre in its entirety. A large portion of the Zanja (approximately 40 feet) will be preserved and displayed for the community to enjoy. Three places have been negotiated for display, the future Blossom Plaza's Cultural Plaza, the Los Angeles Historic State Park, and as part of Metabolic Studios' Los Angeles River Water Wheel project.

"I am extremely excited about this significant discovery of the Zanja Madre, which served as the lifeline to the survival and early development of Los Angeles, and which has survived nearly 130 years below the former Little Joe's parking lot just south of Capitol Milling," stated Cedillo.

He added, "I am pleased my team took on a leadership role in developing a preservation action plan that will help save such an important part of history for all Angelino's. I applaud the willingness of both Forest City and Lauren Bon of Metabolic Studios to collaborate and help us make this happen. This is a true example of a successful public-private partnership where the community will truly benefit."

On April 10, 2014, construction workers at Forest City's Blossom Plaza site uncovered a significant portion of the Zanja Madre (Mother Ditch), the original aqueduct that brought water to the Pueblo de Los Angeles from the Rio Porciuncula (Los Angeles River). In compliance with the project's mitigation monitoring plan, Forest City retained Cogstone Resource Management, Inc, as their on-site archaeological team.

Cogstone and Forest City immediately undertook proper measures to chart such significant discovery. The City was notified immediately, and Council District One worked closely with Office of Historic Resources to ensure proper preservation procedures were followed.

The Zanja Madre was originally an open, earthen ditch which was completed by community laborers within a month of the founding of El Pueblo de Nuestra Señora La Reina de Los Angeles in 1781. This mother ditch originated at the Los Angeles River near the present day North Broadway historic Buena Vista Bridge and ran for more than a mile across the base of the bluff to the original Plaza, then curved north toward the hills. A brush and earth dam (toma) was used to divert water from the Los Angeles River into the ditch. In the 1850s, a water wheel was installed at the toma to increase water supply to the Zanja Madre. Water then was distributed to a number of houses along the principal streets through a system of wooden pipes. There is a square main brick reservoir in the middle of the Plaza, which was the terminus of the town's historic lifeline: the Zanja Madre.

According to Cogstone's 2004 report prepared for Metro in connection with the previous uncovering of the Zanja Madre below the North Broadway bluff along the Gold Line access road north of Capital Milling and the Chinatown Gold Line Station, the Zanja was an open ditch along the base of a bluff until 1877 when a tunnel over 3000 feet long was cut into the sandstone of the bluff. Zanja Madre water was used for household and irrigation purposes within the City of Los Angeles from 1781 into the late 1860s; thereafter it served mostly for irrigation. Improvements to the Zanja Madre after 1884 consisting of replacement with brick conduit of 3 to 3.5 ft. diameter ending at First Street failed to keep pace with population growth and irrigation demand. By 1904 the zanja system was abandoned as a water source. Portions of the system were retained as part of the stormwater system.

Prior to the discovery at the Blossom Plaza construction site, you could view a remnant of the bricked-over Zanja Madre in the area behind the Gold Line station in Chinatown, preserved by the Metro rail system. Also, in the heart of Olvera Street, in the DWP two floor display, at the lower level, a part of the Zanja Madre is also preserved there.

*The removal of the Zanja is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, April 26th at 8:00am.

Captain America, where are you? Superheroes needed to recover stolen Eagle Rock comic books collection

EAGLE ROCK — Writer and teacher Adam Rose has been collecting comic books for 30 years, amassing 8,000 books that were stored in 14 white boxes in the garage of his Eagle Rock home. But earlier this month, as his family had gathered to celebrate his 40th birthday, Rose was up at 6 a.m. to walk his dog when he noticed that the garage door was wide open and those 14 white boxes were gone. "They took nothing else and even moved my nice bike to get to boxes," said Rose of the theft from his home in the north end Eagle Rock. "I am still in shock to say the least. Thirty years of collecting down the drain."

Rose reported the crime to police but is asking for help to recover his treasure trove of comic books, which included such titles as X Factor, Death of Superman, Dark Knight Returns, Incredible Hulk #340 and the entire run of Justice League International. A list of the most valuable books in his collection has been posted on Bleeding Cool; he asks fellow comic book fans to watch out for these titles on Craigslist, ebay or the local comic book store.

Councilmember Huizar Launches Clean Communities Initiative

Councilmember Huizar has allocated discretionary funds to combine with existing city funds to launch a $1.5 million long-term Clean Communities Initiative districtwide. The Council District 14 initiative layers existing city services with additional contracted services from local non-profits like Clean and Green and the Fuego Tech Rangers to provide community maintenance services and address quality of life issues in CD14.

The goal of the Clean Communities Initiative is to create a consistent and ongoing collaborative approach to make our neighborhoods safe and inviting. This includes:

- Graffiti removal
- Commercial corridor maintenance
- Monthly bulky item drop-off dumpsters
- Weekly roving trucks for enhanced bulky item pickup
- Additional trashcans on sidewalks
- Monthly community cleanups
- New tree planting and maintenance

- Surveillance cameras for illegal dumping
- Tree trimming
- Targeted Sidewalk Repair Program

Councilmember Huizar kicked off the CD14 Clean Communities Initiative on Tuesday with the first location of the sidewalk repair program - the Highland Park Senior Center. This comes just two weeks after the City Council approved $250,000 of CD14 discretionary funds for sidewalk repair. As part of the Clean Communities Initiative, Councilmember Huizar also designated another $250,000 for the additional non-sidewalk related services highlighted above.

"CD14 communities are safer than they have been in decades and we have successfully implemented 'complete streets' projects throughout the district, piloting the city's first parklets and bike corrals, building new parks, adding bike lanes and flashing-light crosswalks and revitalizing Broadway and Downtown Los Angeles," said Councilmember José Huizar. "That work continues, but I also want to re-focus time and energy on improving quality-of-life services cut back due to City budget cuts— the Clean Communities Initiative will allow us to do that."

While the City of Los Angeles considers potential bond measures and a half-cent sales tax to fix sidewalks, the sidewalk repair plan will allow Council District 14 to address some of the worst sidewalks in the district immediately and increase quality of life services for constituents.

Councilmember Huizar was joined Tuesday morning by City Departments working on the sidewalk repair program, seniors from the Highland Park Senior Center, local environmentalists and graffiti removal and street cleaning services providers to announce details of the sidewalk repair program and his Clean Communities Initiative.

Check out CBS Local's coverage of the launch here.
